Project Title: White Slough Water Pollution Control Facility (WPCF) Storage Expansion and Surface, Agricultural, and Groundwater Supply Improvement Project

(per referral notice/advisory agency notice)

Project Description: The City of Lodi intends to construct a 70-acre Expansion Pond and associated conveyance improvements necessary to capture and store tertiary treated wastewater currently being discharged to the Dredger Cut, a dead-end slough of the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, during non-irrigation months (mid-April through September). This water will be used to meet the irrigation demands for the City-owned agricultural fields that surround the WPCF. The City also plans to expand the existing City-owned recycled water irrigation system to include an additional 90 acres of City-owned land that is currently irrigated with groundwater from a dedicated well.

Current Site Use: The current site has a Wastewater Treatment Plant, The San Joaquin County Mosquito and Vector Control District, two Northern California Power Agency power generation plants, and surrounding City-owned agricultural fields.

Project Location: 12751 North Thornton Road, California, 95242
